architect, activist

Health of Mother Earth Foundation (HOMEF)

Healing the Earth, Healing Society, Healing Self

Health and Wellbeing are central in Sustainable Development Goal 3 (“SDG 3”). But do we know what the art of healing is; are we aware of the four dimensions of health: physical, mental, social and spiritual health? And do you know the mystery of genuine happiness beyond ‘wellbeing’? Mother Earth needs to be healed, society requires radical transformation but we can only make change happen when we start with our own simple selves and the mindsets that cause the challenges of the 21st century. Ultimately we can join hands to address SDG 17: Partnerships for the Goals. Right Livelihood public lecture and workshop with Nnimmo Bassey, Nigeria, Right Livelihood Award laureate 2010.

To keep alive the legacy of Sombath Somphone, PDR Laos, who disappeared in Vientiane, 2012.

Daw Lahpai Seng Raw is the founder of Metta Development Foundation, Myanmar's largest NGO which runs healthcare, agriculture and peace projects. A member of the Kachin ethnic minority, Daw Seng Raw is at the forefront in facing challenges in Myanmar that include decades of ethnic strife and military dictatorship. In 1987, she started to work with the internally displaced people at the Myanmar-China border. Moving to Bangkok in 1990 she joined the Kachin Independence Organization's humanitarian wing (ROKA). She started the Metta Development Foundation in 1997. In 2013, she was awarded the Ramon Magsaysay Award the highest distinction for social activists in Asia.

Dialogue on Gross National Happiness with Dasho Karma Ura.

Is happiness an individual issue or are social and environmental conditions making impact on how we feel and how we act? Can we speak of “public happiness” and can we measure it? Does the GNH Index provide a guideline for policy decisions of government, the business sector and civil society? And is article 5 of the Constitution of Bhutan (2008)

“Every Bhutanese is a trustee of the Kingdom’s natural resources and environment (...)” a pointer to the possibility of the commons as the most fundamental principle of Earth governance? Dasho Karma Ura is an Oxford educated economist, artist of famous mural paintings and designer of the annual Dochula Festival.

CURLS participants from all over the world dedicate their energy during two weeks, in the context of various locations, on their personal life destination projects. The summerschool offers opportunities for participants to interact with Right Livelihood Award laureates and various resource persons. In particular interaction with fellow participants has proven inspiring, forging friendships and partnerships for the future.

“The pedagogy of the course incorporated dialogue, lectures, group discussions, field work and also creative action through mind and body exercises.”

“It was an important learning for me to know about the social and political realities of Bhutan, Myanmar, Thailand, Philippines and Indonesia through interaction with the persons in the course.” – testimony of Charanya R., Food Sovereignty Alliance, India.

Prof. Anwar Fazal, Malaysia, one of the first Right Livelihood Award laureates and Founder of the Right Livelihood College (RLC), one of the four partners supporting CURLS said:

“The Right Livelihood College aims to be five things – a hub, a catalyst, an incubator, a multiplier and an accelerator of links between universities and the work of Right Livelihood Laureates, an interactive link between academics and activists.” – Prof. Anwar Fazal, Founder of the Right Livelihood College, Malaysia.

CURLS 2018 will start in Bangkok at the green city-campus of Chulalongkorn University. The campus provides a platform for critical academic analysis and new impulses for civil society impact; followed by an excursion to a rural area of interest.

This year the excursion brings the group to the Chiang Dao region, 70 km north of Chiang Mai city, North of Thailand. It is a region of limestone mountains and protected forests – the original territory of indigenous people. Here Seven Arts Inner Place of art therapist Anupan Pluckpankhajee and the Makhampom art and theatre centre are situated offering challenging perspectives on self-education, social healing, reconnection with Mother Earth and advocacy for Earth Rights.

After this experiential learning journey CURLS 2018 participants return to the Bangkok area: first to Wongsanit Ashram – 40 km away from the city – for a short meditation and reflection retreat. And for preparation of their project presentations during the final session at the Chulalongkorn University campus also including the Sombath Somphone public lecture.
